New exhibit at BlackRock shed 'Light' on art

BlackRock Center for the Arts is pleased to present the exhibition "Light: Essence of Color" featuring oil paintings and pastel drawings by the seven member artists of the Maryland Colorists: Melissa Gryder, Sharon Littig, Abigail McBride, Nancy McCarra, Michele del Pilar, Andree Tullier and Sarah Wardell.

The exhibit includes landscape, still-life, portraits and figurative subjects and will be on view in the Terrace Gallery through May 30.

Light, that which reveals the world around us, is the source that links this group of artists together. Their primary focus is to capture a fleeting light effect observed in the everyday scenes. "Light: Essence of Color" is the first exhibition by the Maryland Colorists, a collective formed in 2013 by seven women with classic academic, studio and plein air training in color, draftsmanship, portraiture and figurative work.

Each of the artists maintains a professional studio practice which includes portrait commissions, exhibiting their work in both fine art galleries and museums, and entering juried exhibitions and plein air painting competitions. Many of the artists live in the Annapolis area.

All of the artists have been selected for membership and board positions in professional artist organizations, which
